A LITTLE LAUGH

Gratitude

A man bought a sawmill and after he had paid for it, said to the former owner:

"Friend, since you tell me you're going to leave here, I wish you'd give me a few pointers on how to make the mill pay."

The former owner of the mill laughed and explained, "Stranger, this here mill was left to me by grandma, and the patch where I got my timber from belonged to my fust wife, so I didn't have to invest nothing. My two boys cut the log gratis, and Pearl—she's my niece—toted 'em down here free of charge. Me and my third wife run the mill, so that part didn't cost no overhead. I worked this mill that way for two years and lost $9,000. Good luck to ye!"—$5 prize to C. E. Beam, Statesville, N. C.

The Last Hole

A minister had been beaten badly on the links by a parishioner thirty years his senior, and was rather disgruntled.

"Cheer up," his opponent said. "Remember, you win at the finish. You'll probably be burying me some day."

"Even then," said the minister, "it will be your hole."—Efficiency Magazine.

Feeble But Alert

The wealthy old lady was very ill and sent for her lawyer to make her will. "I wish to explain to you," she said weakly, "about disposing of my property."

The lawyer was sympathetic. "There, there, don't worry about it," he said soothingly, "just leave it to me."

"Oh, well," said the old lady, resignedly, "I suppose I might as well. You'll get it anyway."—Exchange.

In This Motoring Age

The little city girl stood and watched the farmer milk the only cow he had.

The next morning, the farmer was much excited, as the cow had been stolen during the night.

Farmer: "Drat the thief that stole that cow. He's miles away from here by now."

Little Girl: "I wouldn't worry 'bout it, Mister, they can't get so far away with it, 'cause you drained her crank-case last night."—Clipped.

A Good Trick

Small Boy: "Will you lend me two dimes?"

Mr. Birdsell: "With pleasure."

Small Boy: "Then make it four, and thoroughly enjoy yourself."—Exchange.
